The Princess' Birthday Party

Once upon a time a little Princess turned ten and wanted the _____ birthday party ever.

"What do you want to eat at your party?" asked her Father, the King.

"I want to eat _____," the Princess said.

"How many do you want?" the King asked the Princess.

"I want _____," the Princess said.

"And what flavor do you want them to be?" The King asked, scratching his beard.

"I want _____, _____ and _____."

"Okay," said the King. "And what do you want to wear?"

"I want to wear a _____." The Princess said.

"Alright," said the King, and he gave the instructions to his butler. The butler however was very _____ and he mixed them all up.

The day of the party came and the princess had _____ that tasted like a _____, and she had a _____ that was made of _____,

_____ and _____.

"Oh no," The Princess said. "This isn't right."

The clever King quickly ordered that everyone wear their food and eat their clothes, and it has been that way in that Kingdom ever since.
