

Pulp Fiction

1. Proper Noun
2. Proper Noun
3. Proper Noun
4. Proper Noun
5. Proper Noun
6. Adverb
7. Proper Noun - Plural
8. Proper Noun
9. Proper Noun
10. Proper Noun
11. Proper Noun
12. Proper Noun
13. Proper Noun
14. Verb - Past Tense
15. Verb - Past Tense
16. Proper Noun
17. Proper Noun
18. Proper Noun
19. Proper Noun
20. Proper Noun

Pulp Fiction

Late one morning in the Hawthorne Grill, a _____ Proper Noun on Sunset Boulevard in Los Angeles, a couple of young Brits called Honey Bunny ( _____ Proper Noun Plummer _____ Proper Noun and Pumpkin ( _____ Proper Noun _____ Proper Noun ) discuss the pros and cons of robbing banks versus liquor stores. Then they add restaurants to the equation, realizing they can make more by taking customers' _____ Adverb than they get out of the till. They stand up in their booth and announce that they're robbing the _____ Proper Noun - Plural _____.

Earlier in the day, _____ Proper Noun _____ Proper Noun ( _____ Proper Noun L. _____ Proper Noun ) and Vincent Vega ( _____ Proper Noun _____ Proper Noun ) _____ Verb - Past Tense at a San Fernando Valley apartment building. They are hit men in the _____ Verb - Past Tense of Marsellus Wallace and have come to retrieve a valuable belonging of Wallace's from a group of would-be crooks led by a young and naive guy named Brett ( _____ Proper Noun _____ Proper Noun ). They take back the valuable item -- kept in a briefcase, it glows warmly and transfixes whoever looks at it. _____ Proper Noun recites what he claims is a Bible verse, Ezekiel 25 :17, before he and _____ Proper Noun _____ Proper Noun Brett.