

Henry and Mudge and the Wild Wind

1. Noun _____

2. Noun _____

3. Noun _____

4. Noun _____

5. Noun _____

6. Noun _____

7. Noun _____

8. Noun _____

9. Noun _____

10. Noun _____

11. Noun _____

Henry and Mudge and the Wild Wind

Henry and Henry's big _____ Noun _____ Mudge were playing outside one hot summer day. Suddenly the _____ Noun _____ blew so hard that it blew Henry's _____ Noun _____ away.

"Wow," said Henry. "Some wind."

Whoosh!

Mudge's _____ Noun _____ rippled. His _____ Noun _____ flapped. His _____ Noun _____ got all wet.

"mUst be a thunderstorm coming," said Henry. "Uh-oh."

Henry didn't like thunderstorms. They made him jumpy. But they made Mudge even jumpier. Every time a _____ Noun _____ came, Mudge deid strange things. He whined. He walked around the kitchen _____ Noun _____ about a hundred ties. He sat in the bathroom alone. He put his head between the couch _____ Noun _____. The only jumpy thing Henry did was whistle a lot. Lightning would crash and _____ Noun _____ would boom and Henry would whistle. He whistled "jungle Bells." He whistled "Happy Birthday." He even whistled "The Star-Spangled _____ Noun _____" (not very well).