Mission Statement

A mission statement is a Noun which is used as a way of Verb - Present Tense the purpose of the Noun. Although most of the time it will remain Adjective for a long period of time, it is not Adjective for organizations to Verb their mission statement and Adverb happens when an organization Verb - Present ends in S. Mission statements are normally Adjective and Adjective statements which outline what the organization's Noun is and are related to the specific sector an Noun operates in.

Adverb crafted mission statements (1) serve as Noun - Plural to separate what is important from what is not, (2) clearly state which Noun - Plural will be served and how, and (3) Verb a sense of intended Noun to the entire organization. A mission is different from a Noun in that the former is the cause and the latter is the Noun; a Noun is something to be accomplished whereas a vision is something to be pursued for that accomplishment. Also called company mission, corporate mission, or corporate purpose.[1]

The mission statement should guide the actions of the Noun, spell out its overall goal, provide a path, and guide decision-making. It provides "the framework or context within which the Adjective strategies are formulated." It is like a Noun for what the company wants to do for the Noun. [2]
