Wind Blow

A long long time ago there lived an Adjective Noun called Nicolas. One day he woke up with a terrible itch on his Noun. He asked his friend Wind to please Verb on his back, but nothing happened. The tree looked down at the perfectly Adverb grass and asked if she could get the wind to blow. The quiet grass tried to call for Wind but nothing happened. The tree then looked up and asked the sun to call for Wind. The sun sent his Adjective rays looking for Wind. All day long the Tree Verb - Past Tense, the grass Verb - Past Tense, and the sun Verb - Past Tense for Wind. When the moon came up Nicolas could barely take the itching. He begged the Moon to call her friend Wind. And just like that a Wind came and blew on Nicolas' Adverb.
