Somewhere in Stockholm

That's me right there on the Noun, listening to Wu in my Proper Noun

Neon lights hit the Noun, reflecting the Noun I'm lost in

That's me right there on the Pronoun, I one day would be Determiner

For a dream that I didn't have, that I'd one day would believe in

Strange how the same place I ran from's the same place I think of whenever the chance comes

It's inevitable cause wherever I go

I hear Verb - Past Tense of a thousand screams

As I lay me down to sleep

There's a black hole deep inside of me

Reminding me, that I've lost my Preposition or subordinating conjunction

Somewhere in Determiner

I lost my backbone, somewhere in Stockholm

I'm from a place where we Verb, openly show our Determiner

We drown our sorrows in bottomless Adverb and leave them to float in the ocean

I'm from a place where we never, separate people from people

Some generalize, but in general I still believe that we are treated as equals

My

father, my mother, my sister, my brother, my friends and my family's there

My hope and my money, my innocence in a sense, almost lost everything here

Right where I was Pronoun, is right where I'll be found Pronoun

These streets are my Adverb, until I get back Preposition or subordinating conjunction

I hear echoes of a thousand Noun

As I lay me down to sleep

There's a black hole deep inside of me

Reminding me, that I've lost my Coordinating conjunction

Somewhere in Noun - Plural

I lost my Verb - Present Tense, somewhere in Pronoun

I'm not alone, I am the fire that burns not in the city, but out in the burbs

A river that's dying of thirst, I am a reverend lying in church

A crack in the pattern, a miracle waiting to happen

A promise that never was kept, one of those moments you'll never forget

I am that feeling inside the one we all know but can't really describe

I am the blood spill, but I'm in love still

Somewhere

in Stockholm, but I'm not alone

Don't have to get by on my own, I'm finally home
