My friend Lennie

Lennie Small is [_____Adjective_____] and [_____Adjective_____] and, in many ways, the opposite of [name #1].

Where [name #1] has [_____Adjective_____] features and [plural noun], Lennie is [exclamation]. Often he [verb ending in s] like a [noun] and has the strength of a [noun] but his actions are often like those of a [opposite noun].

Lennie's personality is like that of a [animal]. He is [_____Adjective_____] and [_____Adjective_____] with an amazing ability to [hidden talent]. He acts with great loyalty to [_____Proper Noun_____]

He can often be found saying: "[same proper noun] is going to give me [noun]" or "[Same proper noun] won't let me tend the [plural noun]." He is devoted to [same proper noun] like a [noun] is devoted to its master, and he tries to follow [same possessive proper noun] commands. There is a childlike [noun] in Lennie that can be seen when he first sees the pool of water and [adverb] slurps down gulps of water like a [noun].

Lennie's greatest feeling of security comes from [-ing verb] [_____Adjective_____] things. When the rest of the world gets complicated and scary, [-ing verb] helps Lennie feel safe. Society as a whole would disapprove of [same -ing verb], but Lennie sees nothing wrong in his actions. He [adverb] sticks to his [plural noun].

Lennie's prodigious strength combined with his [_____Adjective_____] make him [_____Adjective_____], and he needs [noun]

] to keep him out of [noun]. Lennie's [noun] keeps his dream alive, but his [noun] makes the dream impossible to realize.
