Life of a Literacy Coach

One morning, the _____Number_____ grade teacher called me into her _____Place_____. She had an important question about one of her _____type of a person_____. This _____type of a person_____ had turned in his _____school assignment_____, and for every answer he had written _____Animal_____. She asked me if I could do some _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ on him to see if he was just _____Adjective_____, or perhaps he is having trouble with his _____Part of Body_____. She also asked me to lead a lesson on finding the _____Noun_____ _____Noun_____ of a story. I told her I would do my _____Adjective - Ends in EST_____, and to _____way to send a message_____ me the details. Later in the day, as I left the _____Place_____ with my tray of _____Food_____, another teacher asked me a few questions that didn't make much sense. First, she asked if she could send me _____Number_____ students after school for a _____Subject_____ lesson. I told her I had to think about it. Next, she asked if "_____Book Title_____ _____Book Title_____ _____Book Title_____ _____Book Title_____" was an appropriate book for a _____Grade in School_____ reader. I told her I was pretty sure that it wasn't, but it depends on the context. Last, she asked me if she could borrow some _____Noun - Plural_____ from my library. I told her of course. I have to say, that if all my days as a literacy coach are like this, I will have a very _____Adjective_____ career.
