LAG BOMER TODAY

To Verb Lag B'Omer, Jews from around Israel Noun bonfires, to commemorate the great fire Determiner surrounded Rabbi Shimon. For weeks before, Israeli children scavenge wood to arrange as impressive sculptures - often 20 and 30 feet high. Great public celebrations are held and the wood towers are burned on Lag B'Omer.

But if Lag B'Omer Noun the date of Rabbi Shimon's death, why is it Noun a Noun?

The reason is that Verb - Past Participle Shimon had been convicted of a capital crime by the Romans. By all rights, he should have died well before his time. But through Adjective self-sacrifice (hiding in the cave) and a series of Noun - Plural (the carob tree and the stream), Rabbi Shimon was able to live out a full life. The climax of this great life was the revelation of Proper Noun greatest inner secrets. All this is cause for Noun.
