

moral

1. Noun
2. Coordinating Conjunction

moral

once upon a time there was a man named John Danielle He was very wealthy however, he was very ambitious and selfish he own a Store of classy Noun Coordinating conjunction, he didn't like to share with anybody. One day he was walking around a street called the regret street when suddenly a beggar approach to him and asked him money to buy some food but, he refused to give him money. time went by when his company went bankruptcy and lost all his money and his house so he got in the streets like the beggar. one day he was asking for some money when someone aproached to him and gave him some coins he hadn't seen the face of the man who gave him the coins so, when he saw the face of the man he realized that it was the same face of the beggar which long ago he refused to give him the money.