The Haunted House

The Haunted Tower

One afternoon _____ Proper Noun and _____ Proper Noun were walking down a(n) _____ Adjective trail, looking for kindling for their campfire. The trees were _____ Adjective and _____ Adjective, and there were _____ Adjective wildflowers all around. Mr Hayward and Mrs Beale began to pick the wildflowers, and after a while, they laughed so far that they had wandered away from the trail.

It started to get dark. Mr _____ Noun - Plural began to get worried, but Mrs _____ Noun - Plural seemed excited to have an adventure. "Look!" Mrs _____ Noun - Plural said. "Do you see that _____ Noun? It looks like a house!"

"We're saved!" cried Mr _____ Noun - Plural, who was relieved.

Once they got closer, Mr _____ Noun - Plural felt very uneasy again. It didn't look like the cozy little cottage Mr _____ Noun - Plural had been imagining, but rather a big, spooky tower! It was about 17 feet tall, and it was covered with _____ Adjective ivy and moss. It was the creepiest thing Mr _____ Noun - Plural had ever seen!

Mr _____ Noun - Plural said, "Mrs _____ Noun - Plural, let's keep walking! There's no way I'm going into that tower!"

It looks haunted!"

"Don't be such a(n) _____! We're going in. I think it looks perfectly un-haunted!" said Mrs _____.

Mr _____ was so scared that he could not open his eyes. He felt his ears chatter as Mrs Beale opened the door. All of a sudden, Mr _____ felt that he was not alone. He opened his eyes, prepared to see the worst. But instead, he saw all his friends and family inside the haunted tower! "Surprise! Happy birthday, Mr _____!" they all danced.
