The departure

It was a rather	Adjective	and windy day as	First name	First name	made their way down to get an early break	fast of doug	hnuts and coffee. Whe	n out of the blue	e the wind picke	ed up, and with a loud, " VWOORP!"; a la	rge blue pol	ce call box appeared b	efore them. If a	nything, the boy	ys should have been frightened but, for	r some reasc	n, they were not. The	door to the box	opened and out	popped  a man dressed like a Noun .	The boys ju	st watched as he began	to peruse them	closely. Then,	without any notice, the man shouted, "Fantasti	c!"; the two	just stared bewildered	as the man bega	an to give then	the synopses of his dilemma.
From what they co	ould gather	this man was a doctor	of sorts, oddly e	nough he went	by the title The Doctor. Even stranger still he be	eckoned the	n into his box. Wary o	f entering the str	range Doctors I	Bo Ethan asked, "; However will we fit?"; With	h a The Doc	tor said, "Take a look."	"; and as Ethan s	stepped inside h	ne was amazed to see, instead of a phone, a vast	room! Â He	e jumped out and exam	ined the exterior	r of the box. Th	is was impossible! The box was so small yet t	he inside wa	as so great! "This is da	ft!"; exclaimed I	Ethan, while the	e Doctor looking quite pleased with his re	eaction push	ed the two into his box	x. With diligence	e the Doctor be	gan to cavort about a console $\hat{A} \hat{A} \hat{A}$ And after	flicking a fe	w switched and pulling	g a few levers, th	nere were off fa	ster than they had appeared.
