_____*Animal Three*____>:

Why not come with us to the town of Bremen? Together we can be fine musicians.

Narrator 1: So the Animal Four, the Animal Three, the Animal Two, and the Animal One headed down the road.

Narrator 2: The animals walked all day but they did not reach the town of Bremen.

Animal One: Come, my friends. Let's rest under this Adjective Noun One for the night.

Narrator 3: The Animal Four went up into the Same as noun One to get a look around. Suddenly he called out...

Animal Four: We are in luck my friends! I see a light. Perhaps there is a house for us to sleep in.

Narrator 4: The animals followed the Animal Four to the light. There they found a little house.

The Animal One peeked in the window.

Narrator 1: The Animal One saw a band of robbers inside the little house. The robbers were so busy counting their money that they did not see the Animal One.

Animal One: My friends we must think of a way to frighten those robbers away.

Narrator 1: It wasn't long before the animals had hatched a good plan.

Narrator 2: The Animal One stood on his hind legs. The Animal Two climbed on the Animal One shoulders. The Animal Three climbed onto the Animal Two back. The Animal Four perched on top of the Animal Three.

Narrator 3: And then the animals sang out...

Animal One: (Sing your song, Animal One style!)

Animal Two: (Sing your song, Animal Two style!)

Animal Three: (Sing your song, Animal Three style!)

Animal Four:

(Sing your song, Animal Four style!)

Narrator 4: The noise scared the robbers. The robbers dashed out of the little house and ran away.

Narrator 1: The robbers did not take their gold. They did not take their food. They just ran away as fast as they could.

Animal One: What good luck, my friends! Now we have a cozy house, tasty food, and all the gold we'll ever need.

Narrator 2: The animals never went to the town of Bremen. They lived happily ever after in the tiny house in the woods.

All: The End.
