The Man and the Creature

A Sho	rt Story by	y Andre	w Collings and	d his class.
One _	Adjective	e	Adjective	morning a	Adjective	and	Adjective	man got out of his bed.
He ste	pped onto	the	Adjective	floor and walked	d across to th	eAd	iective and	dAdjective
windo	w.
He loo	oked out a	cross the	e garden and s	aw something w	hich made hi	m feel	Adjective	It was a creature of some l	kind. He d	lidn't kno	ow exactly wh	nat it was, but it l	ooked	Adjective	and	Adjective and had
Α	Adjective		Noun - Plural	all across its bac	ck.
The cr	reature ope	ened its	mouth and the	e noise it made so	ounded	Adjective	and	Adjective
What t	the hell w	as it!?
The m	an ran to	his close	et and put on s	ome clothes, the	n quickly das	hed outsi	de to take a c	eloser look.
The cr	eature had	d moved	now. It was c	closer. The man c	could see it m	ore clear	lv.

Its legs were	Adjective	and	Adjective	_, and its eyes w	ere Adjective	,	Adjective	and
Adjective	_·
It looked at the r	nan, and all	of a sudder	n he felt	Adjective -
He slowly walke	ed forwards :	and reached	d out his han	d. Gently, he tou	ched the creatur	e's body.
Wow! It felt	Adjective	and	Adjective	. The man move	ed along his hand	d, stroking	the creature.
Its neck felt	Adjective	_ but its he	ad felt	Adjective It le	poked like the cr	eature likeo	d being strol	ked.
It looked hungry	though.
The man went b	ack into his	house to fin	nd some food	l. There was son	1e Adjective	pie in t	he kitchen.	The man didn't like i	t. He though	t it tasted _	Adjective	and Ad	ective . He to	ook it for th	e creature.
When the man o	pened the do	oor, the cre	ature came in	nside. It was only	y now the man c	ould smell	it properly.	It smelledAdi	ective an	d Adje	ctive, and	d a little bit	Adjective man held out the pie and the creature ate it whole with itsAdjective	, Adjective mouth.

It let out a noise and disappeared back outside.
What a morning!
The man went back to bed, feeling and and Adjective
Maybe he would have a dream. But nothing could be a	s as what had just happened!
