Dear diary

Reading an entry from your Adjective diary about that time dad chaperoned the Adjective school dance and became the centre of attention with his smooth Noun - Plural. Dear diary: I so need to Verb out of school and go into a Noun protection programme after what happened last night.

There I was, slow Verb ending in ING with Male name to "I will always Verb you". I didn't even care that dad was there because I Adverb had Same male name's Body part plural wrapped around me, heaven! Then Britney Spears "Verb me Noun one more time" came on and dad literally went nuts. He put his Body part plural in the air and started busting out his Adjective dance moves, the Verb ending in ING man, the Noun patch and the Sprinkler. A circle of Noun - Plural formed around him chanting "You go you old Noun". I wanted to Verb him, the saddest part, he thought people were laughing with him but they were Verb ending in ING at him, I'm like "I'm never going to Verb this down, ever".
