LSDP

I finally arrived back at Eckerd after my Mode of transportation got delayed last night. When I finally got on campus, I noticed that all my Noun - Plural were missing from my room. I was so Emotion, but then I remembered that I had lone them to Person on Campus before we left. Once I got settled back into my room, it was time to start getting ready for my first day of class. Today is the first day of LSDP and I am so Emotion. My facilitators, Celebrity name and Celebrity name are really Personal quality, and Personal quality. They told us all about what were going to do in LSDP this month. I cant wait for some of the activities they were telling us about like Activity and Activity activity. We got to do an activity with tinker toys today and I thought, Exclamation, this tower is going to be so Adjective. Turns out building is way Adjective than I thought. Oh well, I can write about that in my journal. Journaling is going to be so much fun. I cant wait to get started. I am going to write Unit of measurement of pages every day and write about all of the things that happened that day. I am going to write so much that people will think I'm Name of a writer. Speaking of which, its time to Verb back to my room to get started. Today was Adjective and I know tomorrow will be even better!
