New baby in the house

Congratulations! You and your sweetie have welcomed a Adjective born baby into your family. Now that your home from the hospital with your bundle of Noun-Plural, here's some tips on surviving new Noun hood. First, tiny humans mainly do three things all day long, eat, sleep and Verb like there's no tomorrow. Be prepared to have Verb up stains on most of their clothes. If your wife is Part of Body feeding, make sure she has a comfortable chair to Verb in, and a glass of Noun, should she get thirsty. And gentle hands off her Noun while the baby's eating. For many new moms, the idea of a Adjective roll in the Noun is the last thing on her mind, are you getting in to petting Noun-Plural with each other? A good rule of Noun is to Verb but less pronged to snapping at each other at the drop of a Noun. Knee-deep in changing dirty Noun-Plural Babies are Verb ending in ING machines so it's only fair to take turns.
