Journal Entry 2

It has been about _____ hours since I had last written my account of our _____ situation events have taken place in the time in which I have not written. Repeat Last Another male name is now gone. He Verb - Past Tense from our Adjective noun, straight into the Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect .

Several

Despite our best attempts at Verb - Present ends in ING him, he is gone, either Repeat Last Verb - Past Tense, or worse, Repeat Last past tense verb . We assume the latter. The last we saw of him, he was Verb - Present ends in ING deeper and deeper into the Adjective Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect .

Journal Entry 3

Yet another Noun has Verb - Past Tense us. Repeat Last Yet another male name has been Verb -

Past Tense straight into the Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect, grabbed from the Repeat Last noun by his Part of Body . Before, we had assumed that the mermaids would Verb - Base Form us alone as long as we stay out of the Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect, but we were wrong. This may well be my last entry, as the night is Adverb approaching. Neither me, nor Repeat Last Yeeeeeeet another male name can remain awake for much longer.

Journal entry 4

Obviously I have survived the night, as there is no way I would be able to write otherwise . Repeat Last Yeeeeeeet another male name is missing. Our Repeat Last noun was flipped over, and the Adjective mermaids

Verb - Past Tense the Adjective young lad under However, I did not witness them base form of first past tense verb him, leading me to Verb - Base Form Adverb to the hope that he is dead or alive, and will Verb - Base Form .

Journal Entry 5

I

have found Repeat Last Yeeeeeeet another male name _____ floating in the Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect _____, _____ alive or dead _____ !

But just barely. I dragged him through the Repeat Last puddle ocean lake ect _____, to a nearby _____ Noun _____. On the Repeat

Last Noun _____, I planned to start a signal _____ Noun _____, to alert _____ Verb - Present ends in ING _____ Noun - Plural _____ of our presence. This led to a _____ Adjective _____ rescue, and now we have been _____ Verb - Past Tense _____ home. All I wish to say now, is that I shalt _____ Verb - Base Form _____ far from the _____ Adjective _____ and _____ Adjective _____ Repeat

Last _____ puddle ocean lake ect _____ from now on.
