Mad Libs a Dream

And so even though we face the difficulties of today and tomorrow, I still have a dream. It is a dream deeply rooted in the Location dream.

I have a dream that one day this Location will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal."

I have a dream that one day on the red hills of Georgia, the sons of former Noun - Plural and the sons of former Noun owners will be able to sit down together at the table of brotherhood.

I have a dream that one day even the state of Mississippi, a state sweltering with the heat of pick a season, sweltering with the heat of emotion, will be transformed into an oasis of freedom and justice.

I have a dream that my Number little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their Part of Body but by the content of their character.

I have a dream today!

I have a dream that one day, down in Alabama, with its vicious Animal, with its governor having his lips dripping with the words of "interposition" and "nullification" -- one day right there in Alabama little _____ boys and _____ girls will be able to join hands with little _____ boys and _____ girls as sisters and brothers.
