Noah and Rowan

Once upon a time, there were two Adjective brothers. They found a box of the side of the road marked Noun. Noah was very Adjective and thought that he would open the box to see what was inside.

Rowan was more Adjective and Verb - Past Participle. He said they should ask mom and Scott instead.

. The boys Verb - Past Tense and Noah said that they were old enough to figure it out themselves. They lifted the Noun box and carried it to their Adjective house. The box kept making Determiner noises. When they got home, they opened the Adjective box and inside found a Noun. The Adjective cat jumped out of the box and ran around a Adjective house. Oh my goodness what have we done, Noah yelled. Rowan yelled that they needed to trap the Adjective cat.

They ran all over the Adjective house chasing the Adjective cat. It ran into the Noun and broke the Noun. Finally after Noun - Plural, they trapped it with Penny and Ghost's help. The Adjective cat Verb - Past Participle into Noah's arms and started to Verb. Rowan ran to open the box. They taped up the box and put it Preposition or subordinating conjunction so they would not get in trouble.

When Scott and mom got home, they were both Verb - Present Tense Noun. Scott asked what they did that day. Both Adjective boys looked at each other and said, Noun!
