Women & Promotionalism

It was the year of 2016 when Taylor Swift won a Grammy for 1989's Album of the Year, as she made her way on stage she wanted to make her first feminist stance, she turned to the crowd and said Noun, the famed celebrity male feminist wanted to join in on Swifts attitude and stood up and yelled Proper Noun. Taylor knew Helen Gurley Brown, who believes in the 'Never Go Dutch' principle; women should coax luxury gifts and Noun from male work colleagues, and offer Verb - Base Form in return. Taylor agreed, and left with Helen to the COSMOPOLITAN Carnival for Adjective activities like a kissing booth, Noun, performances, and sexy hunks! Not Adjective life. Only reason we went to the Noun this morning was to Verb - Base Form these bikinis because the company Verb - Past Tense me and also I looked good to society's current standards. I was Verb - Past Tense and won the genetic lottery. Why else would I have uploaded this photo? Proper Noun between the lines!
