Queen Sugar

In Number, Natalie Baszile wrote "Queen Sugar". From what I've read, they did research on sugarcane business because when I'm reading, I notice that the book is mostly about the sugar business, which is interesting because it really isn't common knowledge. I am mostly pleased with my choice, even though it's pretty slow. The best part of the book so far occurs when Charley's business finally takes off. A part of the book I would like to forget is when Ralph Angel crashes the party. When I put the book on my GoodReads shelf, I noticed that other readers have given it 3590 ratings, written 663 reviews, and rated it 3.71 stars. I would like my book group to discuss these three questions about the novel:

1. How did Davis die?
2. What is Hollywood's life like?
3. What did Ralph Angel do to make everyone hate him?
