Teen Love Advice

DEAR First Name of a Person: There is a boy I like at school. He is a very Adjective person around school. I'm not. I do have a wide variety of Noun - Plural, and I even talk to some of his.

My friends know I like him, and they would like for me to Verb - Base Form to him. I wouldn't mind that, but what would I say? They want it to happen in person, but I want to do it by text, where I feel more Adjective. What should I do? -- Noun TEEN

DEAR TEEN: Listen to your Proper Noun and Verb - Base Form him in person. A Verb - Base Form and a Verb - Base Form should break the Noun. Then follow it up with a question about some Noun that's happening at school.
