rant incoming

EDIT: THANKS EVERYONE FOR THE Noun =D I'LL KEEP Verb Present ends in ING

HARD DW

(Apologies for the incoming rant. Before starting, I want to congratulate everyone on their Noun ! I'm so Adjective for all of you :) )

I was always taught to Verb Base Form hard to Verb Base Form my Noun Plural and Noun Plural. Ever

since Noun, I wanted to Verb Base Form in the Noun, Verb Present ends in ING Noun Plural

and Noun Plural filled with Noun Plural. Throughout the last few weeks, I realized that no matter how much effort I have spent, how hard

I've tried, nothing seems to work. I should have realized this a lot sooner; my name is seemingly destined to be engraved on the short end of the stick throughout all the Noun Plural at Noun Plural, failures in various Noun Plural, and Adjective looks on friends' faces.

Life Verb Present ends in S. I wanted to be like my role models, with their legendary

_____!" posts. I hoped to _____ through the _____ of my _____, _____, not as an _____ but as a/an _____ _____. But Here I am, realizing my own naivety, and accepting that reality is truly harsh.

To think that I could have done a lot less work (and enjoyed even more of my high school life), slept for more than four hours a day, and still would have gotten the same results for _____ makes me wonder, was it really worth it? In the long run, probably; however, the disappointment from my _____ and myself, the " _____ ," makes me feel as if I wasted so much time in the last seventeen years, not living life to the fullest.

Don't get me wrong, I'm very grateful that I will be able to _____,
and this is definitely not a time for me to give up on everything (we learn from our failures), but maybe we should stop being told to dream big; when the time comes to realize that it doesn't hold true for everyone, it's too late.
