Being a Cop

Being a cop isn't the easiest           Noun          . It requires you to be non-biased, and to be able to think on your           Part of The Body          . Police work has a lot of liability and responsibility that comes with it as well. You're given a           Noun          , a           Noun          , and trusted with the job of enforcing state or federal           Noun Plural          . Cops often have constant stress on not only their           Noun Plural          , but body as well. After sitting in a car for so many hours a night, it's not unusual for your           Part of The Body           to hurt. You sometimes get cuts and           Noun Plural           on your           Part of The Body Plural           from wrestling with suspects. But at the end of the day, you'll realize that this           Noun           is rewarding and fun. Just don't make case law or end up on YouTube, like I did.
