Alice in Learning Community Land

Let's set the scene. This tale, rewritten from the 1865 Lewis Carroll original, stars female teacher at LCCS living on street in central falls in Central Falls, Rhode Island. One type of weather day, something very curious happens.

same female teacher was beginning to get very tired of sitting by male teacher at LCCS on the bank, and of having nothing to do: once or twice she had peeped into the Noun her friend was Verb Present ends in ING, but it had no pictures or Noun Plural in it, 'and what is the use of a Noun,' thought Alice 'without pictures or Noun Plural?'

So she was considering in her own mind (as well as she could, for the Adjective day made her feel very Adjective and Adjective), whether the pleasure of making a Noun would be worth the trouble of getting up and picking the Noun Plural, when suddenly a White Animal with color eyes ran close by her.

There was nothing so very remarkable in that, but when it actually took a Noun out of its waistcoat-pocket, and looked at it, and then Verb Past Tense, Alice started to her feet, for it flashed across her mind that she had never before seen a rabbit with either a waistcoat-pocket, or a watch to take out of it, and Verb Present ends in ING with feeling, she ran across the noun after it, and fortunately was just in time to see it Verb Base Form down a Adjective rabbit-hole under the Noun.

In another moment down went she after it, never once considering how in the world she was to get out again.

The rabbit-hole went straight on like a tunnel for some way, and then dipped suddenly down, so suddenly that Alice had not a moment to think about stopping herself before she found herself falling down a very deep well.

Either the well was very deep, or she fell very slowly, for she had plenty of time as she went down to look about her and to wonder what was going to happen next. First, she tried to look down and make out what she was coming to, but it was too Adjective; then she looked at the sides of the well, and noticed that they were filled with Noun Plural and Noun Plural; here and there she saw Noun Plural and pictures on shelves. She took down a jar from one of the shelves as she passed; it was labelled Food, but to her great disappointment it was empty: she did not like to drop the jar for fear of killing somebody.

Down, down, down. Would the fall never come to an end! 'I wonder how many units of measure I've fallen by this time?' she said aloud. 'I must be getting somewhere near the centre of the earth.
