Parent-teacher meeting

Teacher: I'm glad you were able to make it to this parent-teacher meeting, Mr Silly word.

Parent: It's good to see you again, Ms Name for a cat.

Teacher: Please have a Noun.

Parent: Oh, thank you.

Teacher: So, I want to talk to you about your son, little Type of nut. I've been a teacher for many years and I've never seen such a Adjective child.

Parent: Exclamation!

Teacher: I am as surprised as you. Your son is getting a Letter of alphabet in Math, a Letter of alphabet in Something you hate doing, and for show and tell, he brought in Big number Adjective Noun Plural.

Parent: I will admit that his mother and I started letting stay up late to watch Old TV show.

Teacher: Oh, well that explains it.

Parent: How is little Same type of nut s class participation?

Teacher: Well, you know, he constantly calls out even though I tell him if he has a question, he has to raise his Body part. Yeah, and today during social studies, I found him in the back of the classroom, Verb ending in ING.

Parent: Exclamation! Is there anything you suggest that I do to help my son improve?

Teacher: Yes, of course. That's why you're here. I want you to read with him at least Number times every night.

Parent: I actually just bought him the book, Harry Potter and the _____.

Teacher: That's a very popular book here at _____ Elementary School. So anyways, I also suggest you sit down and make sure that he does his homework because last time, he just said that _____ ate it.

Parent: That's a classic excuse.

Teacher: But listen, he's very well liked in class. And he often leads the other students in singing his favourite song, The _____ on the Bus.

Parent: Oh, that song _____ !
