Show it Off

There once was a           Noun           named Jeremy, nobody liked him. Even his owner Jeremy despised the way he talked like a bag of           Noun Plural          . The only person that liked him was his friend leo the           Noun          . Leo was the "The coolest           Adjective          ". The reason Leo was "The coolest           Adjective          " was because he had the biggest           Noun          . Germey went to a           Noun           size competition, It was called "Who Has the           Adjective                     Noun          ?". Leo had always one the completion, and Jeremy had always lost but this time he had a trick up his sleeve,           Noun          . This was the time, Germey would finally win. All the other years Leo had used           Noun           and won using it. Once Jeremy walked into the stadium with the crowed           Verb Present ends in ING          . Everybody finally saw his           Adjective                     Adjective                     Noun          . The crowed was amazed at the immense           Adverb           in his           Item of Clothing          . When Leo walked in people saw how small his           Noun           was, so they threw           Noun Plural           at him. After that Leo           Verb Past                     Tense           off in his           Item of Clothing          . Jeremy lived happily ever after with his 256           Noun Plural          .
