Happy Holidays from the Kenny Family!

Verb Present ends in ING

2018 has been quite a Adjective Noun for the Kenny family! This year we traveled to Location with Josh's family. We saw Adjective , Adjective glaciers, Adjective Humpback Animal - Plural coming up for air, Animal - Plural swimming upstream, a mama bear and her Noun, hundreds of Noun Plural, and sea Animal - Plural hunting salmon and fighting for room on a buoy. It was an Adjective experience that we would love to repeat some day. Josh and Amanda are still working for Thomson Reuters, and after Number years summarizing case law, Amanda is now working as a product developer. It has been a Adjective and Adjective change! Outside of work, Josh has been busy reading ______ different books at once and ______ Verb Present ends in his workshop. Amanda started doing pottery in January, and is quickly filling the house with her Noun Plural . She has also spent her free time knitting and made a Adjective baby Noun for her soon-to-arrive nephew. In 2018, Eli earned a spot at the regional science fair for his project on the effect of ______ changes on Noun, where he won a first place ribbon. His greatest success, though, was in conquering his fear of Noun. In just 8 months, he went from not wanting to Verb Base Form into the Noun to swimming like a Noun ! This fall he started fifth grade and his final year in Adjective school. When not doing Noun homework, he can be found practicing the Noun and Noun, comics and books, or asking to Verb Base Form Noun Plural. His number one Christmas wish is to get his own cell Noun, but "definitely not a flip phone!"

Love,

The Kennys
