Interesting Manual

All Adjective cars come with an owner's manual from the Occupation - Dentist Lawyer Teacher etc. Most owners leave them in the Noun compartment for easy reference. This can make their frequent absence in Adjective cars frustrating because it violates the driver's user expectations, as well as makes it difficult to use Noun Plural that aren't understood, which is not good because understanding Adjective operation of an Adjective car is one of the first steps recommended in defensive Verb Present ends in ING. Owner's manuals Adverb cover three main areas: a description of the location and operation of all Noun Plural; a Noun and descriptions of Noun Plural required, both by the owner and by a Occupation - Dentist Lawyer Teacher etc; and specifications such as Liquid and Liquid capacity and part numbers of Noun bulbs used. Current car owner's manuals have become much Adjective - Ends in ER in part due to many Adjective warnings most likely designed to avoid Adjective Noun lawsuits, as well as from ever more Adjective audio and Noun systems, which often have their own manual.
