Bird Store

I Verb Base Form down to the store only to find it closed. I Adverb Verb Base Form back home, Emotion enveloping me. "If only the Noun store was still open," I exclaim, getting Adjective looks from other Noun Verb Present ends in ING along the street. I Verb Past Tense them and pick up my pace, realising now that I could just go another day. But then I hear a "Exclamation!" and turn around to find the owner Verb Present ends in ING after me. "What do you want? I ask Adverb. "I noticed you waiting outside before," he replied Adverb. "I was wondering if you wanted to come back since I'm opening up now." Did I still want to go? Or should I not go and Verb Past Tense him? What a Adjective decision it was to make.
