The Judges' Decision

When it was my turn to audition for _____ Noun Idol, the reality show where people compete to be the best solo _____ Noun, I sang from the depths of my very _____ Body Part. When my song ended, I could hardly catch my _____ Noun as I _____ Adverb awaited the judges' response. First, _____ Person Female was very kind. She said, "Well, the good news is that you look _____ Adjective, and you really connected with the _____ Noun Plural in that song." Then _____ Different Person said, "You know, animal, I dug your _____ Noun Plural," and I thought I really had a chance to make it to (the) a _____ Place! But then mean, old _____ Another Person said, "Horrid. Terrible. _____ Adjective. You sounded like an animal trapped inside a/an _____ Noun." I gasped and shouted, "Well you just don't know anything about _____ Noun!" I stormed out of the _____ Noun. I was going to make it as a/an _____ Adjective singer whether that judge from _____ Noun Idol liked me or not.
