

Carlos and the Cell

1. Noun
2. Adjective
3. Proper Noun
4. Verb Base Form
5. Adjective
6. Noun
7. Adjective
8. Adjective
9. Noun
10. Verb Base Form
11. Adjective
12. Verb Base Form
13. Noun
14. Noun
15. Adjective
16. Noun
17. Adjective
18. Verb Present Ends In Ing
19. Verb Past Tense
20. Adjective
21. Noun
22. Verb Base Form
23. Verb Past Tense

- 24. Adjective
- 25. Body Part
- 26. Noun Plural
- 27. Adjective

Carlos and the Cell

Once upon a Noun, there was a Adjective boy named Proper Noun. He loved to be outside where he could Verb Base Form the Adjective Noun and study the Adjective trees around him. One day, his mother bought him a magnifying glass. He took it outside and decide to hold it up to a Adjective green leaf that he found on the Noun. He was amazed when he saw that the leaf was not what it seemed! It was made of tiny compartments that reminded him of the cells in a monastery! He Verb Base Form inside in a rush of excitement and bewlilderment at what he just discovered. He had to know- was EVERYTHING made up of these Adjective compartments? He frantically Verb Base Form around his Noun, holding his magnifying glass up to any object he could find. His Noun bear? Nope. His Adjective Noun? No cells. His mother's Adjective carrot she was Verb Present ends in ING for dinner? YES! He was starting to see an amazing pattern. He went and found his dog and ripped out a piece of his fur. "Sorry not sorry!" yelled Carlos when his dog Verb Past Tense in anger. He held up the glistening, Adjective strand of hair and looked at it under the magnifying glass. To his amazement and satisfaction, it was made of cells! "I know what the secret of Noun is!!! I shall take over the world with this thrilling discovery!" Carlos Verb Base Form and Verb Past Tense his mother. He explained what he had discovered and exclaimed how the family would be rich once he published this discovery. "Carlos. Those were discovered by a Adjective man named Robert Hooke. In 1665." Carlos hung his body part in utter disappointment. He went back outside to gaze at the Noun Plural and try to forget about the fact that he wasnt going to be rich and Adjective. At least not today.