The Cyclone

It was Toto that made Dorothy laugh, and saved her from growing as _____ Adjective as her other surroundings

. Toto was not gray; he was a _____ Adjective black dog, with long _____ Adjective hair and small black eyes that twinkled merrily on either side of his funny, wee _____. Dorothy played all day long, and Dorothy played with him, and loved him dearly.

Today, however, they were not playing. Uncle _____ First Name of a Person sat upon the doorstep and looked anxiously at the sky, which was even _____ Adjective than usual. Dorothy stood in the door with Toto in her _____ Part of Body, and looked at the sky too. Aunt Em was washing the _____ Noun Plural.

From the far north they heard a low wail of the _____ Noun, and Uncle Henry and Dorothy could see where the long grass bowed in waves before the coming _____. There now came a sharp whistling in the air from the south, and as they turned their eyes that way they saw ripples in the grass coming from that direction also.

Suddenly Uncle Henry stood up.

"There's a cyclone coming, Em," he called to his wife. "I'll go look after the stock." Then he ran toward the sheds where the _____ Noun and _____ Noun were kept.

Aunt Em dropped her work and came to the door. One glance told her of the danger close at hand.

"Quick, Dorothy!" she screamed. "Run for the _____!"

Toto jumped out of Dorothy's arms and hid under the _____, and the girl started to get him. Aunt Em, badly frightened, _____ open the trap door in the floor and climbed down the _____ into the small, dark hole. Dorothy caught Toto at last and started to follow her aunt. When she was halfway across the room there came a great shriek from the wind, and the house shook so hard that she lost her footing and sat down suddenly upon the _____.

Then a strange thing happened.
