Send in the Clowns

I'd like to talk to you about a topic concerning the clown industry. As a former clown myself, I'm saddened about what has become of this once institution. You see, clowns back in my day used to instill happiness and Abstract Noun wherever they went. However, lately, clowns have been vilified and portrayed as monsters with intentions. Just look at some of the most popular movies out there that have turned these once fun verb Present ends in ING characters into serial killers. If you need convincing, I ask you to consider "The " an infamous clown villain in the DC Comics Batman movie. How about the recent horror movie "IT" about a clown by the name of wise, a demonic clown that terrorizes children with his ability to use their worst fears against them. Why have clowns become demonized in this way? It's not right! I've had to watch sadly, as former clown friends AKA Bubbles,, and, and the clown give up their clown dreams because they just couldn't make ends meet. So in conclusion, we need to save this dying breed of We need to change the way clowns are portrayed in the media and most of all, we need to, "Send in the Noun Plural."
