Alice's Adventures in Wonderland

There were doors all round the hall, but they were all _____ down one side and up the other, trying every door, she walked _____ she was ever to get out again.

Suddenly she came upon a _____, all made of _____
_____; there was nothing on it except a _____ key, and Alice's first thought was that it might belong to one of the _____ of the hall; but, alas! either the locks were too _____, or the key was too _____, but at any rate it would not open any of them. However, on the second time round, she came upon a _____ she had not noticed before, and behind it was a _____ door about _____ inches high: she tried the _____ _____ key in the lock, and to her great _____ it fitted!
