All Drains Lead to the Ocean

1.	Name You Would Give To Your Cat
2.	Type Of Fish
3.	Country
4.	Male Celebrity
5.	Profession - Eg Doctor Or Farmer
6.	A Curse Word A First-Grader Would Use
7.	Female Name
8.	Repeat Male First Name
9.	Number
10.	Repeat Male First Name
11.	Repeat Female Name
12.	Animal
13.	Adjective You Would Use To Describe A Car
14.	Country
15.	Restaurant Chain
16.	Verb Ending In Ing
17.	Verb Ending In Ing
18.	Repeat Verb Ending In Ing
19.	Plural Objects
20.	Repeat Male First Name
21.	Verb Ending In Ing
22.	Plural Objects
23.	Plural Cute Animals

24.	Landscape - Eg Beach Or Mountain
25.	Vehicle Of Transport
26.	Repeat Male First Name
27.	Plural Something You Would Buy On Ebay
28.	Repeat Female Name
29.	Body Part
30.	Repeat Male First Name
31.	Two Words That Rhyme
32.	Repeat Male First Name
33.	Plural Place You Would Go For Fun - Eg Parks Or Nightclubs
34.	Brand Of Beer
35.	Letter Of The Alphabet
36.	Item Of Clothing
37.	Adjective
38.	Plural Nouns
39.	Past Tense Something You Hate Doing - Eg Vacuumed
40.	Number
41.	Repeat Cute Animals
42.	Adjective You Would Use To Describe An Eel
43.	Plural Marine Organisms
44.	Somewhere You Would Teleport To In The Event Of An Apocalypse
45.	Word You Would Use To Describe A Horror Movie Ending In Ing
46.	Historic Event

	Plural Body Parts
48.	Repeat Female Name
49.	Adjective
50.	Repeat Male Name
51.	What You Would Say If You Found Out You Got An A Plus On Your Chemistry Test
52.	Repeat Name Of Cat

All Drains Lead to the Ocean

Local news report transcript.
News Anchor: Now to our next story. A young man is on the road to recovery after a close shave on a holiday retreat, which left him hospitalised. Name you would give to your cat Type of fish reports.
Reporter: At a suburban home on the outskirts of, was just your average Profession - eg doctor or farmer . With the holiday season approaching, he, like many others, had planned a trip away from his home town. Little did he know, a short holiday, would change his life forever.
Interviewee: I just thought A curse word a first-grader would use when they came back with the diagnosis
."
Reporter: Female name, REPEAT male first name 's long-term partner of Number months, tells reporters they had only been looking for a change of scene. After years without a break, and REPEAT female name decided to apply for work leave, and, together with their pet Animal ,

Interviewee: "We v	were ordering	Adjective you would u	use to describe a car		Country	salads from Restaurant chain
ending in ING . He	e couldn't stop him	self. Yeah, it w	vas strange, but v	ve thought, y	ou know, n	naybe he would sleep it off. So that	night we just wen	t to bed and bo	th tried to ignore	e it."
Reporter: The next	day, they found th	neir troubles, fa	r from over.
Interviewee: "Morn
ending in ING W8	as so bad. That was	s when we grab	obed ourPlu	ral objects	and rushed	to hospital."
Reporter: It's hard	to imagine just hov	w difficult it mu	ust be to see a lo	ved one in su	ich a state.	REPEAT male first name was	also suffering fron	n excessive	Verb ending in ING	fits, as	well as intr	usive thoughts abou Plural objects	Nurses struggle	d to diagnose th	hese symptoms,	but eventuall	y, doctors	declared he had contracted a non-le	thal bacterial disea	ase. When they	asked whether h	ne had been in	n contact w	ith any wildlife the day before, the cou	ple admitted they	had been attack	xed by a swarm o	of Plural cu	ute animals	_ during their evening	ape - eg beach or mountain	walk. Doc	tors prescribed a	course of an	tibiotics, a	nd strongly advised him to return home	immediately. The	e couple boarde	daVehicle of	transport ,	and arrive	d home the next day embark on a much-needed road trip. A few days in, however, things took a turn for the worst.

Reporter: While the medication, at first, seemed to be working, that relief was short-lived. Just a few days later, it was clear something was still very wrong. The original symptoms began returning, and after just one week, REPEAT male first name was exhibiting an extensive, new symptom: an affinity towards Plural . More worried than ever, they paid yet another visit to hospital. Interviewee: "I showed them which antibiotics he was taking, and..... they were all sort of at a loss." Reporter: Nurses assured the couple that the latest symptom was simply a side-effect of the medication. They accused _____ REPEAT female name ____ for improper administration of the antibiotic, saying she had failed to correctly administer the daily dose via the Body part , which was why the symptoms had resurfaced. She insisted this was impossible, and the team of doctors were forced to inspect the patient more closely. What they found, was astounding. REPEAT male first name had contracted a well-documented pathogenic bacteria, known as spp. _____ two words that rhyme ____ -us. While cases of human infection tend to be rare, the bacteria are ordinarily treatable with a regular course of antibiotics. However, on this occasion the bacteria proved unusually resistant to antibiotics, despite looking identical to the classic bacteria in every way. Pharmaceutical teams immediately began research into a new class of antibiotics, to treat

REPEAT male first name 's troubling condition.

Interviewee: "They estimated the recovery would take two weeks."

Medical professional: "It's normal for bacteria to be slightly resistant to antibiotics. But what is not normal, is finding high levels of immunity in the wild. We used to only see that in densely-populated areas like hospitals and Plural place you would go for fun - eg parks or nightclubs ." Reporter: Employees at the Centre for Infectious Research at the University of, are already investigating this emerging issue of antimicrobial and antibiotic resistance. Head of department, Dr.
Letter of the alphabet Item of clothing , who holds the world record for most Adjective Plural nouns Past tense something you hate doing - eg vacuumed , claims we are now facing a Number percent increase in the risk of infection by resistant diseases.
Medical professional: "No matter who or where you are in the world, this concerns us all. The antibiotics we feed to our livestock for the meat and dairy industries, and those which we consume ourselves, most of it ends up in the ocean. And what happened in the case of this gentleman is, these were were exposed to abnormally high levels of antibiotics, which caused them to be host to resistant bacterial strains. Of course, we know they spend most of their time hunting Adjective you would use to describe an eel Plural marine organisms "
Reporter: Bacteria have the ability to exchange genes with their environment, and each other. Thus resistance, once encouraged by antibiotics, is a self-feeding loop. As more and more antibiotics are entering our oceans, resistance can quickly emerge in places as remote as Somewhere you would teleport to in the event of an apocalypse . Even more	æ Word you would use to describe a horror movie ending in ING , not only does this breed immunity in the wild, but it also increases the severity of any given disease.

Medical expert: "Times are changing. We are not living in the anymore. We need to take action, stop developing so many new antibiotics to combat the problem, and, instead, start using these medicine	es more responsibly. If medications like this were more strictly regulated, and patients more closely monitored, w	⁄e wouldn't have this crisis on our Plural body parts ."
Reporter: says she is just grateful to have solved this mystery, and glad that life will soon be returning to normal.	1 Interviewee: "They've made new antibiotics for him now. He's still in hospital at the moment, but it's been a week, and his symptoms have subsided a lot. So he should hopefully be back to his old self in	n no time."
Reporter: At this moment we are pleased to report that is in a stable condition and is expected to make a full recovery.

Anchor:	What you would say if you found out you got an A plus on your chemistry test	!!!!! Thanks REPEAT name of cat	_ for that report. Our thoughts and prayers are with them f	for a speedy recovery.

©2024 WordBlanks.com  $\cdot$  All Rights Reserved.