OntrackNY Mad Libs

One of my Adjective memories from this year was when we went Verb Present ends in ING at the Noun. First we Verb Past Tense to the Proper Noun Proper Noun, found out it was closed, and then we drove two hours south to Proper Noun Proper Noun. When we found Verb Present ends in ING, we saw police cars everywhere. We Verb Past Tense a mile to find our Noun Plural. When we arrived at the Noun, we went Verb Present ends in ING immediately. While we were Verb Present ends in ING, we encountered a Adjective person who tried to Noun our day. We kept on Verb Present ends in ING and playing in the Noun and didn't let that man ruin our fun. Soon after, our friends joined us in the fun. All of us took turns Verb Present ends in ING in the Noun, but after a while we decided to go home.
