A Strange Day at CMS #2

On Monday, January 11, myself and other _____ Noun Plural return to the halls of CMS. We _____ Verb Base _____ Form down the halls to our first class.

I enter Ms. Jordet's classroom but I am _____ Adjective by what I see. All the desks have been replaced with _____ color _____ Noun Plural. _____ Number _____ Noun Plural are scattered around the room and the lights _____ Adverb _____ Verb Base Form. Ms. Jordet is no where to be found.

When the bell _____ Verb Base Form, myself and all the other _____ Noun Plural take our seats. As we wait _____ Adverb, we wonder where our teachers could be. Suddenly, a _____ Noun comes _____ Verb Present _____ ends in ING through the door and I realize that Ms. Jordet has been replaced. If the change in teacher wasn't _____ Adjective enough, we spend the hour learning how to _____ Verb Base Form and _____ Verb Base Form instead of reading and writing.

On my way to lunch, later in the day, I see my best friend _____ Name.

"_____ Exclamation! Have your classes been _____ Adjective today too?" I ask.

"Yes! In math class we learned how to _____ Verb Base Form today and my science teacher had _____ Color hair

and sang everything!"

I am glad I am not the only one having a _____ Adjective day. As I ate my _____ Color pizza the cafeteria was serving, I got started on my _____ Number hours of homework from just the morning classes, only to be interrupted by Mr. Toth on the overheard speaker saying that afternoon classes were cancelled and everyone should report to the gym for a _____ Adjective game of _____ Noun.
