Purim Story

Many years ago, the _____Noun_____ of Persia was named Ahashverosh. One day he decided to have a _____Noun_____ with all of his friends and advisors. He decided that his queen, Vashti, should come and dance at the feast. Queen Vashti refused. She didn't want to _____Verb Base Form_____ in front of all of the king's men, or appear before them to demonstrate her beauty. The _____Noun_____ was furious and banished Vashti.

As time passed, the king wanted a new _____Noun_____. He held a beauty contest and invited all of the eligible _____Noun Plural_____ in the kingdom. The winner was Esther, and she became the _____Noun_____. Esther was Jewish, but her uncle Mordechai, who raised her, warned that it could be _____Adjective_____ to reveal her religion to the king. In fact, he told her not to tell anyone in the palace that she was Jewish.

Shortly after Esther was crowned as queen, Mordechai over heard a plot to murder the king. He _____Verb Past Tense_____ what he heard, and the king wrote his name down in his Book of Good Deeds. The king had the plotters executed.

Meanwhile, the king's chief advisor was a man named Haman. Haman was a _____Adjective_____ and _____Adjective_____ man who expected everyone to _____Verb Base Form_____ down to him. Mordechai refused to bow because Jews only bow before God. Haman was furious.

decided to _____Verb Base Form_____ the entire Jewish people in Persia. He went to the _____Noun_____ and told them that the Jews didn't follow the king's laws, and eventually convinced the king to go along with his plans. Haman cast lots (or Purim in Hebrew) to determine the day of annihilation, and constructed a gallows.

Upon learning of Haman's _____Adjective_____ plot, Mordechai tore his _____Noun_____, wore a sackcloth and ashes, and _____Verb Base Form_____ through the city crying loudly. He came to Esther to appeal to her, begging her to speak to the king on the Jews' behalf. Esther was nervous-clearly the king had gotten rid of his last _____Noun_____ when times got tough. But she eventually agreed to appear before the king and _____Verb Past Tense_____ Mordechai to organize a three-day fast for all the Jews. She believed that _____Verb Present ends in ING_____ would help their prayers be heard.

After completing the _____Noun_____, Esther entered the king's inner court dressed in her most royal _____Noun_____. Esther was risking her _____Noun_____ to go to the king without him calling for her. The king asked Esther what she desired-he would give her anything she wanted. Esther replied that she only wished to invite the king and Haman to a _____Noun_____. Esther knew that if she gave the king _____Adjective_____ _____Noun_____ to eat that he would be more willing to do what she wanted. They accepted.

After the feast, Esther asked the king and Haman to _____Verb Base Form_____ for another _____Noun_____ the next night. Haman left the banquet filled with _____Noun_____. He was so excited that he decided to start _____Verb Past Tense_____ the _____Noun_____, where he was going to hang the Jews. But that _____Noun_____, the king couldn't _____Verb Base Form_____. He _____Verb Past Tense_____ on his _____Adjective_____ advisor to read to him out of the Book of Good Deeds. The king _____Verb Past Tense_____ that he had not _____Verb Past Tense_____ Mordechai for keeping him safe. He asked Haman how an _____Adjective_____ man who helped the king should be rewarded. Haman thinks the king is talking about him, and describes how he would like to be treated, with _____Adjective_____ _____Noun_____, a _____Verb Base Form_____ on a well dressed _____Animal_____, and all the people of the city to cheer for him. The king thinks this is a _____Adjective_____ idea, and he commands Haman to do this for Mordechai.

That night, Haman and the king once again _____Verb Base Form_____ with Esther. At the end of the second _____Noun_____ -- when everyone was happy and satisfied -- Esther told the king of Haman's _____Adjective_____ plan and revealed that she herself was Jewish. The king was furious that anyone would try to _____Verb Base Form_____ his queen. Consumed with anger, he ordered that Haman be hanged on the _____Noun Plural_____ intended for Mordechai. And thus, the Jews were saved.
