Story

To my great friend, First Name of a Person.
Happy Valentines Day! I know that this year we are both without a and, although February 14 has been an important date for us in the past, this time I did not want it to be less. On this day we must not only celebrate the love of relationships, we must also remember the people we love so much And,
for that, I have remembered you.
Friend, since I you in that when we were so Adjective I have not wanted to separate from you. Back then we shared toys, moments of imagination, moments of laughter and a long etcetera that will always be saved in our childhood.
Now I can only express my best for this day and for all the rest. It only remains for me to remind you that you will always have me with you and that our friendship will last forever. Because loves come and
, but friends like you remain.
Love you very much!
