a tale of our people

Our tribe _____Verb Base Form_____ here a century ago and we were very inexperienced hunters and gathers but over _____Verb Base Form_____ we have become very proficient in gathering supplies and building mobile shelters among many other things.

Over the course of the century our tribe members have been able to identify an array of plants and species to help us survive, heal our people and brew concoctions to send us into our creative spaces. We as people enjoy our time together, telling stories, crafting wooden trinkets, creating artwork deep in the cave and living on the lake. As we continue to live here, we have come across farmers that have showed how to cultivate grain. We decided to try that, but we haven't perfected this just yet. We don't trust them just yet, but we are doing what we can to learn their ways. We also picked up how to fish from these farmers so we used our wood crafter to make us spears so we could use them to fish.
