Shep

The king and queen of Caladeen looked over their flock of Adjective Noun Plural. Each one had a ribbon and a bell. The Repeat Last Adjective shepherds kept the Repeat Last Noun Plural clean and trimmed their Noun. The Repeat Last Noun was sent to the Repeat Last Adjective spinners and weavers to be made into Adjective Noun Plural and Noun Plural. Shep was sad because his Repeat Last Noun was never used. He decided to run away. He slid down a steep slope and curled up, cold and scared. The queen realized Shep was missing and brought the Repeat Last Adjective Noun Plural out to look for him. They couldn't find him. The queen sat down by a Noun and wondered where Shep could be. But the Repeat Last Noun wasn't a Repeat Last Noun, it was Shep! The queen hugged him and brought him home. Shep's Repeat Last Noun was made into the most Adjective dress and coat ever.
