Worst First Date

One night not long ago, First Name of a Person took me out on the most Adjective date to a Location.

It all started when he arrived in his Noun, and was Number minutes late. I of course had already put my best clothing on, and picked out my favourite pair of clothing. He was wearing a Noun onesie. And if that didn't make me emotion enough he almost Verb Past Tense us Number times while getting to the date. Once we got there, barely alive, he took me into the Noun store. Once inside, he helped me pick out the perfect colour Noun and extra small Noun. I of course paid for all of this because he had no money since his job as a occupation only paid Number dollar an hour. After about only 20minutes at the Location he debarked he was so hungry we must immediately go devour his favourite food, Food powder. When, we got to the food court reordered Number cups of Food powder, and when I tried to get myself a Food he screamed. Turns out his Adjective Ends in EST fear is Noun. After Number hours he finally finished his Food powder, and I was already trying to figure out an excuse to leave. Luckily, at that moment my First Name of a Person called me and asked me how the date was going. After Number minutes on my phone, he told me I was being Adjective and that we should probably get going.
