A Writer's Eureka Moment

One day last a month, your name woke up fully refreshed and ready to attack your pronouns next manuscript. "I will write a tale about the cyborg Animal - Plural attacking the winged Animal - Plural on the Planet a nonsense word," he said. So he opened his laptop and began typing.

But somehow, by the afternoon, his story was all about a monster cooking a food and playing a game with his besties instead. "an exclamation," said Name! "How'd I end up writing that?" He cried into his favorite an object for a few hours, but then realization struck! "I've created an entirely new genre!" he said. "I shall call it Adjective a three-letter word Punk." Satisfied, he finished the story in only Number a unit of time and sold it to your favorite speculative fiction magazine. Hurray!
