Touch Screen

Noun: A Name
Noun
Adjective
Company Brand Name
App Name
Topic
Tv Show
Plural Food
Verb Base Form
Past Tense Of The Pervious Verb You Chose Body Part
Exclamation
Adverb
Adjective
Noun Plural
Adverb
Verb Present Ends In Ing
Noun Plural
Color
Number
Adjective
Verb Base Form
Verb Base Form

24.	Person: Real Of Fiction Anything Is Fine
25.	Verb Past Tense
26.	Number
27.	Negative Emotion
28.	Noun
29.	Adjective
30.	Adjective
31.	Noun
32.	A Music Artist
33.	Adjective
34.	Adjective
35.	Verb Past Tense
36.	Adjective
37.	Company Name
38.	Verb Past Tense
39.	Adjective

Touch Screen

was a loner. They were a basement-dweller, which means someone who lives in their parent's Noun . They spent all their time on their Adjective company brand name desktop computer, browsing through As they scrolled through the thread, watched and ate, they became so utterly absorbed in the screen, that they decided to Verb Base Form it. As they Past tense of the pervious verb you chose the screen, their body part started to go through the screen. "!", they exclaimed. They suddenly felt dizzy and fainted. As they arose, they saw a world unlike their own. There wereAdjective and and Adverb Verb Present ends in ING "" Noun Plural . The sky was and the ground only had blades of grass. They soon realized that they were inside their Adjective computer screen! They began to verb Base Form and verb Base Form, all while exploring the area.
They even saw Person: real of fiction anything is fine, and Verb Past Tense at them. Number hours passed, and they felt here. They began to tear up, and sat down on a to rest
. They missed their parents, and their,, basement. All of a sudden, in the dark, a shot through the sky. They quickly made a wish, that they could go back home. They even promised to start working if they could go back home. Suddenly their godmother,, fluttered over. Their godmother sung them to sleep, and when they woke up, they were back in the, basement. They verb Past Tense upstairs, hugging their parents. "I'm glad to be here, and I decided I'm going to start working at!" they said. His parents , happy that they were taking initiative to improve their life. It was a day.

The End.

©2025 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.