More stories at WordBlanks.com

A Trip to WWW

1. Student Name _____
2. Noun Plural _____
3. Candy _____
4. Type Of Container _____
5. Animal (Plural) _____
6. Article Of Clothing (Plural) _____
7. Part Of The Body _____
8. Different Part Of The Body _____
9. Number _____

A Trip to WWW

_____Student name_____ and Harry led the way into the shop. It was packed with _____Noun Plural_____; Harry could not get near the shelves. He stared around, looking up at the boxes piled to the ceiling: here were the Skiving Snackboxes that the twins had perfected during their last, unfinished year at Hogwarts; Harry noticed that the Nosebleed _____Candy_____ was most popular, with only one battered box left on the shelf. There were _____Type of container_____ full of trick wands, the cheapest merely turning into rubber _____Animal (plural)_____ or _____Article of clothing (plural)_____ when waved, the most expensive beating the unwary user around the _____Part of the body_____ and _____Different part of the body_____, and boxes of quills, which came in Self-Inking, Spell-Checking, and Smart-Answer varieties. A space cleared in the crowd, and Harry pushed his way toward the counter, where a gaggle of delighted _____Number_____ year olds was watching a tiny little wooden man slowly ascending the steps to a real set of gallows, both perched on a box that read: Reusable hangman--spell it or he'll swing!

©2026 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.