

The Man at the End of the World

1. Proper Noun
2. Adverb

The Man at the End of the World

_____ Proper Noun was walking home from school. [_____ Adverb], the [noun] around him faded away and the only thing left was a [Adjective] old man. "[verb] [pronoun] your coat," the old man said. The old man put on the coat. [adverb], he shrunk down to Michael's size. As Michael [verb ending in ed] in astonishment, he felt himself growing [adjective]. The last thing Michael saw as he stood there, getting used to his new size and feeling very old, was the terrifying [noun] walking away in Michael's [adjective] body.