THE CHAIR

"When my sister and I were kids, our family lived for awhile in a charming old We loved exploring its dusty corners and climbing the tree in the backyard. But our favorite thing was the We called her, because she seemed so kind and nurturing. Some mornings and I would wake up, and on each of our nightstands, we'd find a that hadn't been there the night before had left them there, worried that we'd get thirsty during the night. She just wanted to take care of us. Among the homes' original furnishings was an antique wooden which we kept against the back wall of the living room. Whenever we were preoccupied, watching TV or playing a game, would inch that forward, across the room, toward us. Sometimes she'd manage to move it all the way to the centre of the room. We always felt sad putting it back against the walljust wanted to be near us. Years later, long after we'd moved out, I found an old newspaper article about the farmhouse's original occupant, a She'd her two children by giving them each a cup of Adjective Noun before bed. Then she hung herself. The article included a photo of the farmhouse's living room, with a woman's Noun hanging from a beam. Beneath her, knocked over, was that old Adjective Noun, placed exactly in the center of the room."
