More stories at WordBlanks.com

Daddy's Home

1. Noun _____
2. Location _____
3. Noun Plural _____
4. Adjective _____
5. Noun _____
6. State Of Being _____
7. Onomatopoeia _____
8. Adjective _____
9. Noun Plural _____
10. Verb Past Tense Modifying A Noun _____
11. Noun _____
12. Noun _____
13. Question _____
14. Noun Plural _____
15. Onomatopoeia _____
16. Question _____
17. Onomatopoeia Ending In Ing _____
18. Adjective Ending In Er _____
19. Adjective Ending In Er _____
20. Verb Ending In Ing Modifying A Noun _____
21. Noun _____
22. Noun _____
23. Noun _____

24. Adjective _____

25. Noun Plural _____

Daddy's Home

A man and his young teenage son lived together in a small _____Noun_____ on the outskirts of _____location_____. The lot their house sat on was large and overgrown with tall _____Noun Plural_____ blocking the house from the street.

One day, the man left on an overnight business trip but took his son's _____Adjective_____ _____Noun_____ by mistake. As a result, neither the boy nor his father could charge their phones. Both phones were fully charged at first, but the man was delayed on his way home, and by midnight on the second day, both phones were _____state of being_____.

It was just after this that the boy heard a _____onomatopoeia_____ on the front door. He was a _____Adjective_____ boy and knew not to open the door to _____Noun Plural_____. Instead, he _____verb past tense modifying a noun_____ out of his bedroom window, onto the drive to see who was there.

The boy saw his father's _____Noun_____ in the drive, but he could not see the front door from his room. He went downstairs and looked through the _____Noun_____ in the door to see who was there. He could see his father on the other side of the door, looking back at him, and the boy reached up to open the door.

But something stopped him.

"_____question_____?" the boy called out. "Why are you knocking on the door? Did you forget your _____Noun_____ _____Plural_____?"

The boy waited, but there was no reply -- just another _____onomatopoeia_____ on the door.

"_____question_____?" the boy called out again. "Why don't you just open the door and come in?"

But again there was no reply. Instead, there was just a steady, rhythmic _____onomatopoeia ending in ing_____ on the door which began to get _____adjective ending in er_____ and _____adjective ending in er_____. The boy's dad was _____verb ending in ing modifying a noun_____ constantly on the door, waiting for him to open up when suddenly he stopped and there was no sound at all.

The boy looked through the _____Noun_____ again. His dad was still there, so he decided to open up. When he opened the door, he discovered his dad's _____Noun_____ taped to the door, in front of the _____Noun_____, and a trail of _____Adjective_____ _____Noun Plural_____ leading down the drive.

©2026 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.